IV. CONTEXT

4. Being aware that staff constitutes its primary asset for delivering a high level of performance in the long term, the Office is committed to ensuring optimum working conditions for all EPO employees and to further fostering social dialogue.

5. The Social Report summarises the key facts and figures of social issues as an objective platform for discussion.

6. First published in 2013, the Social Report has become the reference document for social issues. Among the different players involved in social dialogue it creates a shared understanding of the current social situation and of the challenges ahead. Therefore, the Social Report 2013 aims at:

- providing a comprehensive view of staff and working conditions at the EPO;
- increasing transparency by providing a consistent set of data available for internal and external stakeholders;
- promoting social dialogue on the basis of clear and objective data, comparable year by year;
- supporting implementation of the HR Roadmap and helping to monitor the impact of the measures that it envisages;

- providing analyses to define further actions to improve working conditions, efficiency and more generally the Organisation as a whole.

7. The Social Report 2013 presented in Annex I is arranged in the following seven main sections:

- 1) Employment and professional development
- 2) Remuneration
- 3) Social security and pension schemes
- 4) Working conditions
- 5) Health, safety and welfare services
- 6) Social dialogue
- 7) Conflict resolution.

8. New indicators included in this year's report are:

- Table 26: Duty travel indicators
- Table 44: Part-time Home Workers by number of days worked at home
- Table 46: Overtime, shift and on call
- Table 60-63: Conflict resolution (Prevention of harassment indicators and Management review indicators)
- Table 70-71: Anti-fraud and misconduct indicators

The preparation of a social report is established common practice in many large public and private organisations. Social reports are usually officially published and made available to staff and external audiences.

FOREWORD

In 2013, the EPO was able to grow further while continuing to deliver the highest quality standards and outperform most expectations. Production and global efficiency (in terms of products per FTE) increased, while user satisfaction with search and examination continued to improve. These achievements helped to strengthen the already healthy budgetary situation of the EPO, in turn allowing the organisation to invest more in examiner recruitment and training and the stabilisation of the social package.

2013 was also a year of significant reform and change, in line with the strategic orientations set in the roadmaps approved by the Administrative Council. These changes are being implemented to adapt and modernise the social framework and to ensure a sustainable future.

At the EPO, staff constitutes the primary asset for delivering a high level of performance in the long term. The Office is therefore fully committed to ensuring best-in-class working conditions for all EPO employees, as a reward for their exceptional expertise and their commitment to achieving the goals of the organisation.

The Social Report 2013 provides a comprehensive overview of staff and working conditions at the EPO. As far as possible, it compares the situation in 2013 with indicators of the previous year to show developments and trends. In line with last year's report, the 2013 edition is arranged in the following seven main sections, covering all major social issues:

1. Employment and professional development
2. Remuneration
3. Social security and pension schemes
4. Working conditions
5. Health, safety and welfare services
6. Social dialogue
7. Conflict resolution.

By providing concise and factual information across these seven sections, this report is the document of reference on social issues. It enables all the different players involved in social dialogue to have a common understanding of the current situation and of the challenges ahead. It also clearly supports implementation of the HR Roadmap and helps identify further actions for improving working conditions and more generally the organisation as a whole.

1. Employment and professional development

This section deals with the structure of the staff at the EPO and provides breakdowns of employees by site, by function, by age, by gender and by nationality.

This section also provides key data regarding recruitment, internal mobility, training and personal development.

It finally provides statistics on the main reasons for the termination of active service at the EPO.

1.1. Total number of employees working at the EPO

At the end of 2013, 6 814 employees were working at the EPO. The total number of employees increased by 0.7% compared to the previous year.

1.2. Breakdown of employees by function

At the end of 2013, 4 112 employees were working as examiners, representing 60% of the total EPO workforce. The remaining employees were involved in patent procedures support and other activities such as legal services, human resources, procurement or facility management.

The total number of staff remained stable. While the number of examiners increased by 3.0% in comparison to 2012, the number of employees in other functions decreased by 2.9%.

1.7. Breakdown of employees by permanent and contract staff

Contract staff are appointed on the basis of a fixed-term contract. They account for less than 2% of total staff. The number of contract staff has increased for examiners in order to allow them time to improve and fulfil the minimum language requirements. Once the language requirements are attained, examiners on contract become permanent (decision CA/84/08).

33% of permanent staff and 40% of contract staff are female (mostly employed in the non-examiner area).

1.8. Breakdown of employees by length of service at the EPO

Almost 60% of EPO staff have been at the EPO for more than 5 years and less than 15 years.

30% of current EPO staff joined the organisation between 1999 and 2003. During that period recruitment increased sixfold in relation to the previous five years (1994-1998), when there had been a freeze in recruitment.

1.9. Breakdown of employees by category, grade and gender

Staff in category A are mainly examiners, administrators and lawyers:

- Staff in grades A3 and A4 account for 75% of staff in category A;
- On average, 24% of A-grade staff are female (+1 percentage point compared to last year). The percentage of female staff in A5 (directors) is 15%.

Staff in category B are mainly administrative employees:

- 63% of staff in category B are female, mostly concentrated across grades B3 and B4;
- Males are predominant in the B6 grade (supervisors), accounting there for 62% of the total.

Staff in category C are mainly service employees:

- 84% of staff in category C are in the C4 and C5 grade;
- 92% of staff in category C are male.

1.11. External recruitment by grade

In 2013, 222 people were recruited at EPO, a 61% increase over the previous year.

The great majority of hires (83%) were examiners and administrators (A4/A1 career group). More than 75% of hires were male.

The average age of staff hired in 2013 was 35 years.

1.12. Appointments and promotions

EPO employees can be either promoted, on a decision of the President following a recommendation by the Promotion Board, or appointed to another post following a selection procedure (Article 49 of the Service Regulations).

In 2013 a total of 480 staff were either promoted or appointed (against 528 in 2012). This represents 7% of total staff. 92% of those staff were promoted, while the remaining 8% were appointed.

1.13. Training

The total budget allocated for training in 2013 was EUR 12 million, an increase of 4.5% over the previous year. 70% of the total allocated budget was effectively spent.

The total number of training hours was 205 000 hours, an increase of 10% over 2012. The increase in training is mainly due to the newcomers training and to the training provided for the Microsoft Office 2010 migration. In addition, 18 160 hours of e-learning were performed.

In 2013, about 25% of staff travelled for business purposes, 35% for training, for a total of 10 723 trips. Business trips decreased by 0.8% in 2013 in comparison to 2012. This is believed to be partly due to the considerable investment in videoconference facilities. At the EPO, 89 videoconference rooms are in use.

1.15. Termination of active service at the EPO, including invalidity

191 persons ended active service at the Office in 2013. The primary reason for ending active service was retirement (57% of the cases).

In 2013, the turnover rate at the EPO was 2.5%, it was 1.8% in 2012.

2. Remuneration¹

In 2013, the total expenditure for basic salaries and allowances was EUR 821 million. This includes EUR 643 million (78% of the total) for basic salaries.

Source: FIPS

In 2013, the total amount paid as basic salary was 3.5% more than in 2012. The increase is driven by the basic salaries for the A category and is due to the combined effect of several factors (increase of A-grade staff, salary adjustment, increase in the number of staff of higher grades in the A category).

Three categories of staff are working at the EPO²:

- staff in category A are mainly examiners, administrators, lawyers and managers;
- staff in category B are mainly administrative employees;
- staff in category C are mainly service employees.

Please note that for simplification, the average of the salary tables of Germany and The Netherlands has been taken for the lowest and the highest basic salaries.

The following adjustments of the salary scales were applied from 1 July 2013:

Austria: +1.7%

Belgium: -0.1%

Germany: +1.6%

The Netherlands: +3.3%

² Detailed definition in the glossary

2.2. Comparison of the 10th and 90th percentiles

The 10% highest-paid employees earn monthly full basic salaries³ at or above EUR 11 669 (90th percentile). The 10% lowest paid employees earn monthly full basic salaries at or below EUR 5 086 (10th percentile). The ratio between the 90th and 10th percentiles is therefore 2.3.

2.3. Collective reward

No collective reward (ad hoc payment in 2012) was paid to staff in 2013.

2.4. Allowances and benefits

In 2013, in addition to basic salaries, EUR 178 million was paid in allowances and benefits (22% of total remuneration). This includes EUR 84 million paid as expatriation allowance to the 66% of total staff with expatriate status (Article 72 of the Service Regulations).

* The decrease in education allowance expenditure in 2013 is due to a change in the invoicing system at the EPO. The level of expenditure expected in 2014 will be realigned to the level observed in 2012.

 Miscellaneous allowances include: Reserve status allowance, Representation allowance, Housing allowance, Promotion compensation, Employer's contribution to National Insurance Scheme, Temporary fixed allowance, Various allowances.

Please note that staff are entitled to different allowances according to their specific circumstances in line with the provisions of the EPO Service Regulations.

⁴ The invalidity allowance is not included under allowances and benefits in section 2.4, but shown separately in section 3.3.

The increase in the installation allowance and removal expenses is explained by the increase in recruitment in 2013 compared to 2012. The considerable increase in payments relating to termination of the salary savings plan is due to temporary contracts being terminated, which also explains the increase in termination indemnity payments.

In addition to the above, the EPO directly contributes to the budget of the European School Munich and subsidises places in various crèches:

3. Social security and pension schemes

The EPO provides social security schemes including a pension scheme, a healthcare insurance scheme (administered by Vanbreda International) and provisions in case of death, invalidity and long-term care. The total payments in 2013 amounted to approximately EUR 223 million.

3.1. Population covered under the EPO social security scheme

At the end of 2013, 21 751 persons were covered by the EPO social security scheme. The total population covered under the EPO social security scheme also includes staff who were in non-active service (such as unpaid leave) but are still affiliated to the EPO scheme. Only five employees decided not to be covered under the EPO social security scheme.

3.5. Contributions to the EPO's social security and pension schemes

Similar to other international organisations, the EPO has to provide, to organise and to finance its social security and pension schemes independently.

In order to finance the benefits paid under the different social security and pension schemes, contributions are paid by the Office and by the beneficiaries. With a contribution of EUR 188 million (68% of total contribution), the EPO is the main contributor. As in most European international organisations, the share of contributions to all schemes follows the general approach "1/3 employee, 2/3 employer", except in the case of healthcare insurance, where the employee contributions are fixed at 2.4% of basic salary until the end of 2013.

The pension scheme, the long-term care insurance scheme and the healthcare insurance scheme are financed under a funding method, i.e. the contribution rates are set in such a way that reserves can be put aside into a reserve fund in order to be used to cover the future. Since the insured population is still relatively young, most of the schemes are in their saving period.

The exception to the funding approach is the death and permanent invalidity insurance scheme, which follows a pay-as-you-go method, i.e. the contribution rates are set in such a way that benefits are financed only in the period in which they are used and no reserves are built up.

As at 31 December 2013 there were 689 employees affiliated to the NPS (New Pension Scheme) and SSP (Salary Savings Plan) (employees who entered the Office on or after 1 January 2009). The rest (6 122 + 21 in non-active status) were affiliated to the OPS (Old Pension Scheme). For both employee groups the global contribution for post-employment benefits is the same (27.9%), of which 1/3 is paid by staff and 2/3 by the Office.

Assets managed in the SSP scheme amounted to EUR 18 million at 31 December 2013.

4. Working conditions

At the EPO, staff can benefit from various flexible working arrangements, which include part-time work, part-time home working and flexitime.

4.1. Staff working part-time

As at 31 December 2013, 14% of total EPO staff were working part-time (note that 50% part-time is the minimum working time allowed). 72% of employees working part-time were women.

4.2. Staff on Part-Time Home Working

On 31 December 2013, 12% of total staff were in the Part-Time Home Working scheme (against 8% in 2012). 77% of Part-Time Home Workers are working full-time.

According to a recent review, the Part-Time Home Working scheme has had a positive impact on productivity (1.7 more products per examiner on PTHW per year) and has resulted in an increase in paid capacity of 4.8 FTE per year. Also, participants in the scheme have registered on average a 20% reduction in sick leave. 96% PTHW participants report that the scheme has contributed favourably to their personal work/life balance.

* An absence day is not equivalent to a man-day. For instance, an absence day for a 50% part-timer (4 hours) counts as a full day. This is the official unit for reporting sickness.

Parental and family leave are counted as social leave. In 2013, 996 employees took on average 21.8 days of parental leave each. In 2013, 79 employees took family leave. On average, each of these employees took 24.3 days of family leave.

5.6. Home loans

Every staff member who has served with the Office for at least two years may apply for a loan. These loans are only for the construction, purchase or renovation of a house or flat destined to be used as a main residence at the place of employment. By the end of 2013 over 1 600 staff members had made use of such a loan, borrowing around EUR 120 million.

6. Social dialogue

The Service Regulations provide for the creation of elected local staff committees at each place of employment, together with a Central Staff Committee constituted of representatives of local branches. In addition to elected staff representatives, a number of staff each year (around 220 in 2013) take part in such joint activities as selection and promotion boards, appeals and disciplinary boards, as well as the General and Local Advisory Committees¹⁰.

6.1. Involvement in staff representation activities

223 staff engaged in staff representation activities in 2013. This represents an 8% increase on the previous year. About 95% of those staff members were examiners.

7. Conflict resolution

7.1. Conflict Resolution Unit

This unit deals with the prevention of harassment (conflict resolution) and with work-related conflicts (management review).

7.1.1. Prevention of harassment

The prevention of harassment differentiates between "informal" cases, dealt with by amicable conflict resolution methods, and "formal" requests to investigate allegations of harassment.

Table 60: Types of case dealt by the Conflict Resolution Unit

7.1.2. Management review

The management review is a new pre-litigation step introduced by the Internal Appeals Reform (CA/99/12) aimed at resolving disputes at an early stage before litigation (internal appeal or complaint to ILOAT) starts.

The term "management review" refers to a review of decisions taken by the President (and his delegates) as appointing authority, in which the reviewer is a superior of the decision-maker of at least A5 level.

The Conflict Resolution Unit registered 330 review requests in 2013 with a total of 2863 requesters.

One mass management review request may lead to more than one internal appeal registration.

The number of appeals in 2013 decreased by 22% compared to 2012, while withdrawals, 32 in 2013, decreased by 50%.

There were two mass appeals against Investigation Guidelines (Circular 341, 342). One mass appeal with 89 appellants, the second with 61.

The average time from filing of an appeal to decision for cases finalised in 2013 was 42 months. At the end of 2013, 714 appeals were still pending (7.7% more than at the end of 2012).

7.2.3. Complaints by EPO employees with the ILOAT

Once internal means of appeal have been exhausted, EPO staff members may file a complaint with the International Labour Organization's Administrative Tribunal (ILOAT).

7.3. Anti-fraud and misconduct indicators

The Investigative Unit has been active since 2013 as part of Principal Directorate Internal Audit. Its role is to establish the facts relating to an allegation of misconduct and to report the results to the appointing authority, after having applied all necessary procedural safeguards to ensure respect of the rights of all parties concerned. The unit does not investigate any allegations relating to purely managerial issues, such as unsatisfactory performance.
